

Second Annual Student Case Report Contest, Sponsored by Lafeber Company

This contest is open to all veterinary students.

Students will submit a two (2) page case write up (1500 words) about an Exotic Companion Mammal case they have seen, either at their college or during their experiences in a clinical setting. Case write ups should include (see below sample):

- Abstract
- History/Physical Exam Findings
- Diagnostic Workup, Treatment and Outcome
- Discussion
- Maximum 8 references

For blinding purposes, please:

- Authors should avoid including within the text: the name of the institution at which the work was performed, initials of the authors; and must remove institution names from illustrations in order to maintain anonymity
- Include a title page, separate from the case report and include the title of the paper, names and qualifications of all authors, affiliations and full mailing address including e-mail addresses, and contact telephone number of student and clinician.

The student must obtain permission from the supervising clinician, +/- the owner (as required by local privacy laws or facility standards) to write up the case. The name of the supervising clinician(s) must be included as an author on the case; but only identified as such in the separate attachment outlined above. Please include a maximum 250- word summary of the case write up that can be posted publicly.

Entries must be submitted to aemv@navc.com by midnight EST, Friday March 22, 2019. Entries will be evaluated and graded by members of the AEMV Research/Scientific Committee and winners will be notified April 26, 2019.

Winners will be honored on the AEMV Facebook page, AEMV.org, and LafeberVet.com.

Prizes are as follows:

- First Place: Three (3) Textbooks (Exotic Animal Formulary, Fifth Edition, Carpenter; Ferrets Rabbits and Rodents Third Edition, Quesenberry and Carpenter; Clinical Veterinary Advisor: Birds and Exotic Pets, Mayer) – Approximate value $250 USD
