Do you also see avian patients?

Euthanasia—providing “a good death”—is an essential but often challenging part of veterinary practice.

In avian patients, the process carries unique clinical and ethical considerations.

While guidelines exist, personal experience and professional judgment also shape how each clinician approaches these cases.

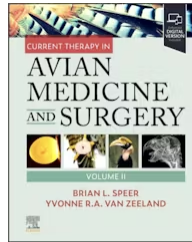

How does your approach compare with your colleagues’?

Take the brief (<5 minutes), confidential LafeberVet survey

TAKE THE SURVEY

Deadline:
Wednesday, December 17 at 11:59 pm CT (UTC -6)

After completing the survey, follow the link provided to enter a drawing for a FREE e-book:

The winner will be notified via email and announced on Instagram.

Survey results will be published in winter 2026
